

Stacking Hay and Grain.

In my opinion, nothing looks better around a farmer's barn, than a nice lot of well built stacks of hay or grain.—When we see them, the first thought usually is, "that is a neat farmer."

That stacks are much better for the grain and hay when well built, is admitted by all, though the custom of making them is so rarely practiced.

More than half the stacks you see put up, look as though they were going to tumble over with the first blast of wind. If the directions given below are followed, you will have a neat, prim looking stack, no matter what size you make it.

Lay your bottom of old rails, old trees, or any such material that you may have on hand, so as it will admit of a current of air passing under it.—One rail square will take twenty tons of hay, when well built. Lay on your hay to cover the bottom all round, and just sufficient to cover the outside; in laying on the hay, keep it well shaken out, as if laid on in lumps it will slip.

Then draw your bottom four to six feet high, in the shape of a bowl; in building up to this height, you keep your centre hollow as you proceed.—You then commence to draw in, keeping as before your centre hollow and your hay well shaken out. When you come to within four or five feet of the top, commence to raise it in the centre, so that it droops from centre to edge, in this way you finish. In unloading, have your loads delivered regularly around the stack, for if unloaded more at one place than another, it will throw your stack in; the same with your ladder, keep it regularly shifted around the stack. When finished, have the bottom pulled from your foundation to where you commenced to draw in; this gives you a nice, regular eave all round, and prevents the rain from running down the stack from penetrating into the bottom, for the eave projecting over, throws the water completely off. Finally rope your stack with hay ropes, six or eight all regularly over it, and divided equal distances apart, fastening them under the eave by driving sticks into the stack and fastening to them. If the stick is crooked at one end so much the better. Your stack is then finished as all stacks should be.

What has become of the Americans?

—Any one who has advertised for an "American cook" or an "American coachman," or an "American Gardener," or anything American, in these times, has had an opportunity of learning the extreme scarcity of American domestics of all descriptions.—Irish and Germans have entirely engrossed that kind of labor, while an American servant, in this section of country, unless he is colored, is almost as rarely seen as one of Turkish or Chinese descent. Even in New England they complain that the race of Yankees is running out, and the foreigners are taking their places. The Springfield Republican says that their farms are now operated by Irishmen; that the heaviest class of manufacturing establishments have gradually changed the constituents of their operative force until from seventy to eighty per cent. is foreign—Irish, Scotch and German; that in the Glasgow mills at Hadly Falls, seventy per cent. of the operatives are foreign, and that in Holyoke the poorer portion is greater.—N. Y. Evening Post.

"Boss, I want twenty-five cents," said a journeyman to his employer.

"Twenty-five cents! how soon do you want it, Jake?"

"Next Tuesday."

"As soon as that! You can't have it. I have told you often that when you were in want of so large a sum of money you must give at least four week's notice."

What difference is there between a prince and a peasant? No more than between two bricks made of the same clay; only one is placed upon a turret, and the other at the bottom of a wall.

HOW THEY READ THE NEWS-PAPERS.

It is a proof of the great variety of human development to notice persons reading a newspaper. Mr. General Intelligence first glances at the editorial, and then goes off into the correspondence. Mr. Sharper opens with stocks and markets, and ends with the advertisements for wants, hoping to find a victim. Aunt Binky first reads the stories, and then looks to see who's married. Miss Prim looks at the marriage column first, and then reads the stories. Mr. Marvelous is curious to see the list of accidents, murders and the like. Uncle Ned hunts up the funny things, and smokes and laughs with a will. Madame Gossip turns to the local department for her thunder, and having obtained that, throws the paper aside. Mrs. Friendly drops the first tear of sympathy over the death column, and then next over the marriages; for says she, one has had as the other. Mr. Politician dashes from that into the telegraphic, and from that into the editorial, ending with the speeches alluded to. Our literary friend is eager for a nice composition from the Editor or some kind correspondent. After analyzing the rhetoric, grammar, and logic of the production, he turns a careless glance at the news and then takes to his Greek, perfectly satisfied. The pleasure seeker examines the programmes of public entertainment, and decides which will afford him the greatest amount of amusement. The laborer searches among the wants for a better opening in his business, and—but enough; an extension of the list were useless.

There is just as much difference in readers as in anything.

But the worst is yet to come. If each does not find a column or less of his peculiar liking, the Editor has of course, been lazy, and is unworthy of patronage. Oh who would't be an Editor?—Alb Knick.

A Romantic Marriage and its End.

—Young ladies of a romantic turn of mind may derive some wholesome experience of the misery which awaits ill-assorted marriages from a case now before the Paris tribunals, in which a Madame Chabre seeks to be divorced from her husband, Monsieur Chabre, alias Lightning. The lady is the daughter of a noble Belgian family, and was some years ago possessed of beauty, youth and £7,300 sterling. It happened that while visiting the famous circus of M. Djeau, at Brussels, she fell desperately in love with the clown of the establishment, surnamed Lightning, probably from the marvellous manner in which he blazed. She followed the interesting object of her passion to Paris, where she and Lightning were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. But the ungrateful clown, after spending the property brought to him by his romantic wife, deserted the latter, and flashed away with a young lady connected with Franco's, whose talents in jumping through paper hoops captivated his practical mind.

The estate of Mr. Boylston, editor of the Amherst (N. H.) Cabinet, lately deceased, has been appraised at $90,000. Rich editors are so rare that when found a note should be made of them.

General Houston on Diplomacy.

—It is said that Gen. Houston, when he was President of Texas, gave the following instructions to his diplomatic agents:

"Make the foreign ministers drink two glasses of wine to your one, and thus obtain their secrets from them!"

Upon this the Boston Traveller remarks:

"Sagacious old hero; he achieved the independence of the Republic by a battle, and would maintain it by a bottle!"

The Louisville (Ky.) Courier, of Thursday last, states that a contract has been made to deliver 1,000 barrels of flour in that city next March for $4 50 per barrel.

GROVER & BAKER'S

FAMILY SEWING MACHINES,

Promote the leisure, health and happiness of home.

OFFICES:

No. 714, Public Square, Nashville Tenn.

No. 495, Broadway, New York

No. 18, Summer Street, Boston.

No. 101, Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

Reasons why this Machine is Universally Preferred over All Others.

1 Because it is the only Sewing Machine in the world ever invented, so constructed as to fully meet the demands of families for general use.

2 It is very simple and is never liable to get out of order.

3 It makes a seam which will not rip, though every thread stitch is cut.

4 It is not a shuttle machine.

5 It sews with too needles, making any length stitch desired.

6 It sews from two ordinary spools, and thus all trouble of winding thread is avoided while the same Machine can be adapted at pleasure, by a mere change of spools, to all varieties of work.

7 The same Machine runs silk or linen thread, and common good cotton, with equal facility.

8 This Machine will sew in the sleeves of a coat with the same ease and facility that it sews a straight seam.

9 This Machine can be run to make one thousand five hundred stitches per minute.

10 The seams are as elastic as the most elastic fabric so that it is free from all liability to break in washing, ironing or otherwise.

11 The stitches made by this machine are more beautiful than any other made either by hand or machine.

The price of the Machine set off in New York, range from $75 to $150, an additional charge of $10 is only made on each machine over New York prices at office in Nashville, to defray expenses of transportation &c. to Nashville

WHEAT AND FLOUR.

The subscribers have completed the most perfect arrangements that can be made for the sale of Wheat and Flour, and during the remainder of this year will devote their attention almost exclusively to the sale of these two articles, and they can say to their patrons with certainty that they will realize as much net money by shipping here as to any market beyond Atlanta, and will do so with less risk and in shorter time. As to the peculiar advantages of our market every one is familiar who knows its locality. We will accept on wheat for three-fourths the value of shipments at 30 days payable here or at Augusta. R. Road Receipts to accompany the drafts—Shippers of flour we think would find it to their interest to draw at 60 days, so as to allow ample time for sales to be effected without forcing sales. We will continue reporting our market prices to the Tennessee papers. They will be reliable as heretofore.
